

Individual Activity: Your thoughts on author's questions

Write your own examples from different contexts

1. What defines the entitlement to use social services?
2. Who should be entitled and on what conditions?
3. Whether services account for individual characteristics like age, socio-economic status, and geographical location, and how these factors influence the availability and type of services provided.
4. Broader purposes of social services, which may include compensating for societal disservices (like unemployment or pollution), providing support for undervalued societal roles (like care for the disabled), or fostering personal and collective development (like education or health services).
5. Providing support where society or its mechanisms have caused a loss or lack, such as through environmental damage or social inequality.
